WILDE'S NAVY OFF TO CONQUER QUEENSLAND

Navy King heads Saban on his way to winning the Sir Henry Bolte Hcp at Flemington. (Bruno Cannatelli)

Warrnambool trainer Symon Wilde is going to do something this week he hasn't done for a long time and send a horse to race in Queensland, with Navy King (NZ) (US Navy Flag) to fly to Brisbane on Tuesday ahead of Saturday's Gr.1 Queensland Derby (2400m).

Wilde campaigned Baughurst and Hissing Sid in Brisbane 15 years ago but hasn't been back with a runner since then.

That's all about to change though, after Navy King impressed connections with his last-start victory at Flemington, convincing them to pay the late nomination fee for Saturday's $1 million contest.

"We were taken by his win at Flemington. I just thought it might be a good time to go with a late three-year-old that I thought was quite impressive," Wilde explained.

"It's a little bit of a roll of the dice, but I think it's well worth doing since he's won enough money to warrant doing it. It would be mad not to, he's lovely and sound, there's no problems with him, he just seems to be in red-hot form at the moment.

"We just thought, why not?"

Wilde revealed that he'd booked Craig Williams for the ride and emphasized the significance of the barrier draw for Navy King's Derby hopes.

"I think it's pretty vital, he just needs to draw between one and six," Wilde said.

"If he draws down where we can get cover, I think that's the key to him. He's got cover quite easily from barrier one at Flemington the other day, that was the big difference. He switched off beautifully and then had a nice turn of foot.

"We'll be really praying that we draw well because I think that will be really vital for him, if he can just get that cover, he'll switch off. I don't think that he'll have a problem with the 2400m if he does switch off ok."

Wilde has given Navy King some experience of galloping right-handed ahead of his trip to Queensland this week.

"We've galloped him twice the reverse way," he said.

"Warrnambool were great, they let us on the course proper on Saturday and he had a little roll around right-handed and then again this morning at Terang, so he's done two gallops, which I think is ideal."

Navy King is at $15 in Sportsbet's market for the Queensland Derby.

A son of The Oaks Stud stallion U S Navy Flag, Navy King was bred by Cambridge Stud owners Brendan and Jo Lindsay.

The dam of Navy King is the O'Reilly mare Eliza Blues (NZ), who won two races and was runner-up behind Quintessential (NZ) (Fast N' Famous) in the Gr.1 Queensland Oaks (2400m) in 2012.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Moody confirms I Wish I Win rider

Luke Nolen is back as I Wish I Win's (NZ) (Savabeel) rider in Saturday's Gr.1 Kingsford-Smith Cup (1300m) at Eagle Farm.

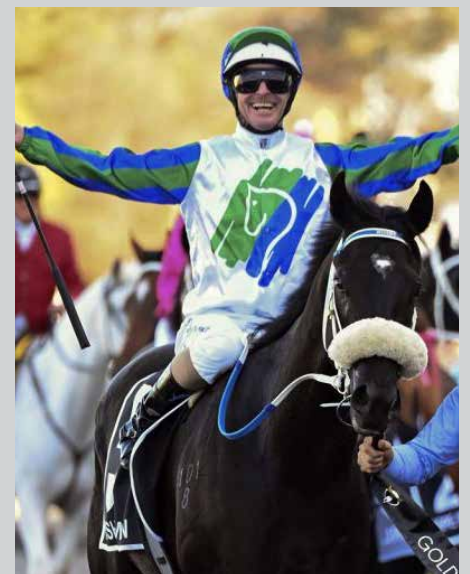

Nolen has missed riding the Group One star at both runs this campaign, but has re-claimed the ride from James McDonald, who is unavailable due to his commitments around Hong Kong star Romantic Warrior in Japan on Sunday.

Nolen has ridden I Wish I Win in eight of his 11 Australian starts but lost the ride first-up this campaign in the Gr.1 T J Smith Stakes (1200m) following injuries incurred from a trackwork fall.

McDonald retained the ride when I Wish I Win was nosed out in the last stride by Bella Nipotina in the Gr.1 Doomben 10,000 (1200m) earlier this month.

Sportsbet has I Wish I Win marked the $3.60 favourite ahead of Victorian mare Magic Time at $6.

Moody holds the key to both Group One races in Brisbane on Saturday as aside from I Wish I Win's attempt on the Kingsford-Smith Stakes, he will saddle the filly Autumn Angel in the Queensland Derby. – Racing.com

KIWI-BRED PRIMED AND READY FOR QUEENSLAND DERBY

Trainers Mick Price and Michael Kent Jnr are hoping their Gr.1 South Australia Derby (2500m) runner-up Warmonger (NZ) (War Decree) can go one better when he heads to Eagle Farm on Saturday to contest the Gr.1 Queensland Derby (2400m).

Kent believes there is further improvement from the New Zealand-bred son of War Decree ahead of his Brisbane assignment this weekend.

"I think his pattern where he has been getting back and running on, if there's any silver lining from that, is that he's been pulling up super from those races," Kent told Racing.com.

"He's still got plenty of petrol left in the tank and he's been thriving since Adelaide. He's put on weight, muscle and just maintained his summer coat.

"He had two Brisbane-way gallops on the grass before he left, and I think the horse is flying.

"So, now we just have a pretty easy week leading in. Blake Shinn takes the ride and I think he'll run super; I really think he will."

Kent said Warmonger has settled in well in Queensland.

"He travelled up there on Tuesday, he went up there with about 15 horses and arrived there in beautiful condition," he said.

"He's coped with the travel really well. He hasn't had a gut-busting run all preparation.

"The way he's been coming out of the gates and dawdling out is that he is just hitting the line with gusto and coming out of the race feeling good about himself.

"You don't want to reinvent the horse, but you want him to be in touch.

"It would have been okay last time (in the South Australian Derby) had they gone along faster. I should have read the play better. As soon as Air Assault got the lead, he dropped anchor. They were fearful he wouldn't stay and went 14 (seconds) to the furlong.

"We took blinkers off in an effort to make him jump better and settle better, and he raced tractably, so that's staying off, we're not touching with his gear.

"If we can draw a middle gate, settle midfield on a big track like Eagle Farm, it should be a really nice race for him."

Out of the winning Savabeel mare Princess Sapphire, Warmonger was bred by Kevin Hickman and sold as a yearling for $75,000 before being presented at New Zealand Bloodstock's 2022 Ready To Run Sale by Prima Park.

Riccarton trainer Shane Kennedy went to $165,000 to secure the youngster, having prepared his Almanzor half-sister Blue Solitaire to finish third behind Legarto in the Gr.1 New Zealand 1000 Guineas (1600m).

EARLY BREEDING SETBACK OVERCOME IN THE BEST WAY

A nightmare start for the Smithies family with Tactless' breeding career has turned full circle following the emergence of high-class filly Scarlet Oak (Kermadec).

Under their Monovale Holdings banner, they purchased the well-related broodmare in foal to Kermadec at the Inglis Digital Sale in 2020 and the result of that mating was Saturday's impressive Gr.2 The Roses (2000m) winner.

Scarlet Oak's progress has provided significant compensation for an early setback following the loss of the mare's next foal by Street Boss.

"That was so heart breaking, he was a belting colt and one of our stand outs," Max Smithies said.

"He had an x-ray issue that we unfortunately couldn't get right, he had a serious infection as a foal in his hock.

"It was a big loss, but she's got a nice Contributor yearling that we'll be looking to sell and has a weanling colt by Tarzino."

Tactless is now in foal to Deep Impact's Group One-winning son Profondo and breeding plans for later this year will be firmed up after Scarlet Oak runs in the upcoming Gr.1 Queensland Oaks (2200m).

"We're still working out where the mare will go this year. We'll wait and see what happens in two weeks before we make a decision on that," Smithies said.

A daughter of Commands, Tactless is a half-sister to the Gr.1 Spring Champion Stakes (2000m) winner and sire Complacent and was secured by Monovale for A$10,000.

"We liked the pedigree and always liked Kermadec so we thought she was pretty good buying," Smithies said.

"We liked the look of her from all the photos and spoke to the vendor, so we got a good feel for her.

"We thought she was relatively cheap to access a good pedigree like that."

Scarlet Oak was originally destined to be sold at New Zealand Bloodstock's National Yearling Sale but luck of the draw, or bad luck in this case, resulted in her being withdrawn.

"What happened was that she was prepped really well by Ross MacKay of Leanach Lodge and she was Lot 1 at Karaka," Smithies said.

"We felt that she wouldn't get what she deserved, we always really liked her and based on that we were happy to push on and take her to the next stage.

"It's okay if you're Lot 1 with a really big hitter, but when it's a middle market horse it can be a bit risky to be right at the start of the sale and we thought she was better than that."

Scarlet Oak was subsequently placed with trainers Ken and Bev Kelso and following a debut victory at Matama in March was sold to clients of Chris Waller's stable.

"There are so many what ifs in racing, but we're in the business of breeding and selling horses and we hope that they can go on and perform at the elite level," Smithies said.

"She's ticking all the right boxes, so we've certainly got no hard feelings and hope she goes right on with it, that's for sure."

Scarlet Oak has won two of her three Australian starts and finished runner-up in the Gr.3 James Carr Stakes (1400m). She currently heads the Queensland Oaks market as a $3.20 favourite. – LOVERACING.NZ News Desk

SUCCESSFUL WEEKEND FOR FANNIN

Dual license holder Shaun Fannin had a weekend to remember, training a double at Trentham on Saturday with Hazel Schofer, before jumping in the saddle at Woodville on Sunday to guide Champion jumper West Coast (NZ) (Mettre En Jeu) to victory.

"It was a wonderful weekend and hopefully we can get a few more like that," he said.

Opawa Scarlett (NZ) (Shooting To Win) kicked off proceedings at Trentham when taking out the Lisa Latta Racing 1300 on debut by a long neck over the Bill Thurlow-trained Steal My Thunder (NZ) (Derryn).

"It was a really tough win," Fannin said. "She has always shown a lot and we thought she would be hard to beat. There was just a question mark over the really heavy track at Trentham and we thought she might be better on a better track. It was pleasing to see that she got through it well enough, and she stuck her neck out and really wanted to win.

"I think we will just back off Opawa Scarlett, I think she might be a nice mare in the spring when she gets out over a mile to 2000m."

Later on the card, recent stable acquisition Farrenc (NZ) (Dalghar) improved on her first-up placing when taking out the Manawatu ITM Steeplechase Day Tomorrow At Woodville 1200 by a head over Super Time (NZ) (Super Easy).

"We haven't had the mare very long in our stable. She came to us a happy horse and she loved the heavy track there, stuck her neck out and wanted to win as well, so that was pleasing to see," Fannin said.

"She seems to like those wet tracks and I might find a nice 75 rating race for her in the next few weeks."

Closer to his Awapuni base on Sunday, Fannin jumped back in the saddle at Woodville aboard Mark Oulaghan's champion jumper West Coast, who once again showed his tenacity when beating Izmydaad (NZ) (Istidaad) by a neck in the LJ Hooker Manawatu Steeplechase (4000m).

With training becoming more of a priority for Fannin of late, he has made a conscious decision to reduce his riding commitments but has maintained his association with West Coast.

"I make an exception to ride such a good horse as him," Fannin said. "It was wonderful to see him back carrying such a big weight.

"He definitely hasn't gone backwards, I think he has come back the same as he was last season.

"He got back and relaxed nicely and came into the race when I asked, and he showed that usual fight that he always does. He seems like an old marvel, he comes back just as well every year.

"You always get excited when you know he is going somewhere and have the opportunity to ride him. It definitely makes it more exciting for the winter looking forward."

Fannin now has 12 training wins for the season, bettering his previous best mark of 10 last term, and with two months to go in the season he is hoping he can extend that margin.

"We are trying to work hard and do the best for all the horses and try and place them as best we can," he said. "It is nice to see we are getting some results now, which is very pleasing."

FIRST WINNER FOR MELVIN AT PUKEKOHE

Tayla Melvin had an afternoon to remember at Pukekohe Park on Saturday, riding her first winner in the saddle aboard the Mark Walker and Sam Bergerson-trained Devoted (NZ) (Contributer).

The 21-year-old is apprenticed to the Te Akau Racing trainers and made her raceday debut aboard the stable's mare Polly Plum in mid-April at Matamata, finishing third.

With a further nine raceday rides under her belt, Melvin combined with the son of Contributor in the TAB NZ 2100, where he was rated a $16.30 chance after finishing strongly last-start for fourth under the young hoop at Rotorua.

Devoted jumped fairly away from barrier seven and Melvin allowed the six-year-old to settle back at the tail of the 14-horse field, sitting three-wide in the heavy conditions. The gelding was travelling better than most turning for home, sweeping to the extreme outside and running down Charlbury (NZ) (Churchill) to score by a neck at the post.

Melvin was elated after the victory, which follows an extensive list of Te Akau apprentices to salute on raceday including Daniel Stackhouse, Vinnie Colgan, Opie Bosson and Troy Harris.

"It's good to finally get the monkey off my back this early in my career, it's pretty good," she said.

"I probably rode him a bit further back than I had anticipated, but he's the kind of horse that switches off and relaxes in behind midfield.

"When he came into the home straight, he let down really nicely.

"I did think it might be coming (the win), but I didn't want to get too confident."

While Melvin didn't initially have a career in horses in mind, she ended up working for Wingatui couple Terry and Debbie Kennedy, and a move to Matamata soon provided an opportunity to start an apprenticeship.

"I said to myself when I left school that I didn't want to pursue a career in horses, but here I am," she said.

"I'm originally from down south in Mosgiel, and I was based with Terry and Debbie Kennedy down there.

"I started with Te Akau about a year ago, and Mark offered for me to stay and do my apprenticeship with him, so I haven't looked back since."

Walker was full of praise for Melvin, while indicating a future over the fences is a possibility for her winning mount.

"She's an important part of the team, rides beautiful track work, and all the staff will be rapt for her," he said.

"She's been getting better in every ride since starting off last month and her fitness is continuing to improve. I think she's got a bright future.

"And the horse, Devoted, he's continuing to furnish and mature, although it has taken time, and he could develop into a really nice steeplechaser."

Devoted was purchased by Te Akau principal David Ellis at the 2019 Karaka Yearling Sales, out of co-breeder Mapperley Stud's draft for $50,000.

The gelding has won four races and $72,842 in stakes from 33 attempts for the Te Akau Cartography Syndicate.

WOLLER ENTERS WINNER'S CIRCLE AT TRENTHAM

After beginning her career in the amateurs, Emily Woller broke into the apprentice jockey ranks in style when riding her first winner aboard Quid (NZ) (Rios) at Trentham on Saturday.

Waikato-based Woller had her first raceday ride as an amateur twelve months ago, and with another year of experience under her belt, took her first ride as a licensed apprentice for her mentor Clinton Isdale at Ellerslie last month.

"It didn't feel like as much of a step-up for me which was quite good, I got to have the basics of race riding in the amateurs," Woller said.

"It is a bit more competitive now with the whip use."

She picked up a second placing on another of Isdale's contingent Pontardawe (NZ) (Sweynesse) during April but headed to Trentham in pursuit of an elusive win partnering Kevin Myers' five-year old, who was on debut and the outsider at $54.

The early part of the race didn't go as she had planned with Quid travelling wide near the tail of the field into the first bend, but he travelled kindly along the back straight as stablemate Winewomenandsong (NZ) (Zed) controlled the pace up-front.

Quid tracked the widest again turning for home as the field fanned across the track, the long Trentham straight playing in his favour as the gelding wound up strongly down the outer and chased down Paradis (NZ) (Complacent), taking the win by a long neck.

Woller was thrilled to collect her first success and expressed her gratitude to Myers post-race.

"It was lovely, he just travelled up really nicely and I'm very grateful to Kevin for putting me on. He's a nice horse," she said.

"I was a bit worried being wide, but I found some cover, and as soon as he straightened up he dug really deep."

The 17-year-old was born in Wanganui and returned to the River City recently to gain some experience under Myers, who rewarded her with the ride aboard the son of Rios.

"I just thought I'd come down and get some more experience somewhere different, and I'm really loving it down here," Woller said.

"I grew up riding ponies all my life, and my sister was working as ground staff for Shelley Houston, so I went in one day to help out and I haven't looked back since.

"I went from Shelley's to Clinton Isdale, and he mentioned about me getting my license, so we got onto that and here I am now."

Myers also spoke after Woller's win, indicating Quid may commence his career over fences sooner rather than later, following in the footsteps of full-brother Lochwinnoch (NZ) (Rios) and half-brother Yardarm (NZ) (King's Chapel), the latter a former winner of the Hawke's Bay Steeplechase (4800m) and Wellington Steeplechase (5500m).

"It was good for her (Woller), she was lucky to be on this horse as she was a bit overweight but she's done the work at home over the past week, so we've given her the chance," Myers said.

"The Wallace's (owners) sit back and wait for their horses (to mature), but he's gone well at the jumping trials. He'll probably go over the jumps next weekend."

WEST COAST TOPS OULAGHAN MASTERCLASS

Star steeplechaser West Coast (NZ) (Mettre En Jeu) added another crown to his impeccable record for Mark Oulaghan with a tough victory in the L J Hooker Manawatu Steeplechase (4000m) at Woodville on Sunday.

The phenomenal record of West Coast over the bigger fences commenced when he won a maiden steeplechase at Hawke's Bay in June of 2022, and he has made nearly every post a winner since with a Koral Steeplechase (4250m), Hawke's Bay Steeplechase (4800m), Wellington Steeplechase (5500m) and a pair of Grand National Steeplechases (5600m) to his name.

West Coast secured his Champion Jumper title with a win in the Great Northern Steeplechase (6500m) to complete an incredible campaign last year, and punters were out in force supporting a successful return for the son of Mettre En Jeu at Woodville, backing him into $2.

Last-start winner Izmydaad (NZ) (Istidaad) assumed his regular role as pacemaker in the early stages, with Shaun Fannin settling West Coast midfield as he comfortably negotiated the first lap of the course.

Several runners went up to contest the lead heading into the second circuit, while West Coast bided his time in behind before moving strongly into contention at the 800m, in pursuit of the leader alongside the Kevin Myers pair of Hey Happy (Rip Van Winkle) and Interlectus (Intello).

Izmydaad and West Coast jumped the final two fences in unison and the pair fought in a tight struggle to the post, but even the 73kg impost could not stop the gelding from claiming the feature by a neck in emphatic style.

"He sneaked through and got the inside run, he was pretty well ridden by Shaun and at the end of the day he got there, even if only just," Oulaghan said.

"He'll take a bit of improvement out of that race, you can give them a few flat runs and think they are fit, but by the time they get over the steeplechase fences, it brings them on a lot more."

"He's just got that ability, his strongest attribute is probably that he can really find at the end of a race, other times he's looked a bit flat at the top of the straight and he's been able to pull it out at the end of 4000 or 4400m, which is pretty unusual for a horse. Not a lot of horses can do that.

"I think he was the first horse in 50 years to win the three big ones in a row (Wellington, National, Northern) so it puts him right up there for me."

With plenty of options ahead, Oulaghan is unsure where the gelding will appear next.

"He'll take a bit of improvement out of that race, you can give them a few flat runs and think they are fit, but by the time they get over the steeplechase fences, it brings them on a lot more," he said.

"I'm not 100% sure where he will go next."

Bred by Wanganui nursery Letham Stud, West Coast is out of the Grosvenor mare Testament, and he has earned north of $402,000 for the Williamson's in 34 attempts.

Awapuni-based Oulaghan emulated his feats at Grand National Week in claiming the feature double with Berry The Cash (NZ) (Jakkalberry), who was a dominant victor of the Manawatu ITM Awapuni Hurdle (3000m), and incredibly he also claimed the Property Brokers Woodville-Pahiatua Cup (2100m) with Pinkerton (NZ) (Niagara).

The son of Niagara has become something of a course specialist at Woodville, picking up his two most recent successes at the course including a Rating 65 Highweight over the mile in April.

A strong showing up in grade at Hawera had Pinkerton a $3.40 favourite for Sunday's race, and jockey Lisa Allpress had him travelling quietly near the tail of the field through the mid-stages.

The in-form hoop got busy at the 800m and Pinkerton powered into contention turning for home, holding out a strong late dash by Masso (NZ) (Road To Rock) to score by a long neck.

"We just let him stick to his pattern, he's a back runner so he relaxed nicely and ran home well," Oulaghan said.

"He's not very big and being a six-year-old, it's taken him a long time to mature into a reasonable sort of horse. He's physically not probably ideal for a jumper, we haven't done much schooling with him but it may be something we look at further down the line."

Oulaghan bred the six-year-old out of his late mare Bidthemobgooday (Reset), and he has earned $54,470 in 20 starts.

A highly-regarded trainer on both the flat and over fences, Oulaghan has enjoyed many successes in both roles and was pleased to have a successful outing close to home.

"It's always good to win the major jumping races, and getting two of those today was nice," he said.

"I'm a Woodville boy, so it was good to come home and win the Cup here.

"We'll just head home and feed a few young horses now."

BERRY THE CASH A CLASS ABOVE IN AWAPUNI HURDLE

Berry The Cash (NZ) (Jakkalberry) firmly asserted himself among the top hurdlers in the country at Woodville on Sunday with a dominant display in the Manawatu ITM Awapuni Hurdle (3000m).

The son of Jakkalberry contested last year's edition at just his second jumping appearance, and a narrow second placing to talented jumper Suliman (NZ) (Redwood) indicated there was plenty more in store.

A fall in the Wellington Hurdles (3400m) in July was soon rectified when he travelled to Riccarton Park and delivered with a stunning victory in the Grand National Hurdles (4200m), his last jumping assignment in an emphatic debut season.

Legendary jumps trainer Mark Oulaghan gave Berry The Cash a pair of flat runs to prepare for Sunday's contest, and the gelding looked ominous when taking out the Jumper's Highweight (2200m) at Woodville earlier in May, as reflected by his $2.60 favouritism in the Awapuni Hurdle.

A competitive field of nine assembled for the feature, and the main dangers to Berry The Cash were tipped to be relative newcomer Oxygen (NZ) (Citi Habit), and eye-catching speedster English Gambler (Casino Prince), sitting at $4 and $6.20 respectively.

Combining with regular rider Portia Matthews, who already claimed the first on the card in a catch-ride aboard Jo Rathbone's Torque Time (NZ) (Guillotine), Berry The Cash attacked the opening fences before settling fourth-last, while English Gambler assumed his customary role as a rolling front-runner.

The leading margin diminished swiftly heading into the second lap, with Country Bumpkin (NZ) (St Reims) taking over as Berry The Cash began to travel very comfortably into contention, swooping to the lead at the 700m and leaving many flat-footed.

Oxygen misjudged the second-last fence dislodging Shaun Fannin, while a game Lord Spencer (NZ) (Zed) and Taika (NZ) (Mettre En Jeu) chased hard behind Berry The Cash, but they were no match for the seven-year-old as he stormed in under little pressure from Matthews, the final margin 4 ½ lengths.

Berry The Cash on his way to a dominant victory in the Manawatu ITM Awapuni Hurdle (3000m) at Woodville. (Peter Rubery (Race Images Palmerston North))

Oulaghan had anticipated the Soft 6 track may not be an ideal match for Berry The Cash, but was pleased to see it didn't hinder his chances.

"We knew he was reasonably fit, but I did think the track could have been a fraction fast for him and had they run the race at Wellington, it may have suited him better," he said.

"As it turned out, it didn't seem to matter and he acquitted himself very well.

"He seems to be going from strength to strength, it was his first season of hurdling last year and he ended up pretty much on top.

"His first run back today was really good considering the conditions, so he hopefully could be another top-liner in the making.

"The obvious step now is going to the Waikato Hurdles in the middle of June, then we'll see how he gets through it before looking beyond that."

With five victories from 26 starts under his belt, Berry The Cash has earned $157,600 in stakes for Oulaghan and the remainder of his ownership group.

DEVASTATE BACK TO WINNING FORM

Progressive galloper Devastate (NZ) (Vadamos) bounced back to winning form when he prevailed in a thrilling three-way finish to the feature race at Pukekohe, the Jamieson Park 1500.

The four-year-old son of Vadamos displayed all his fighting qualities as he held out a stirring challenge from Zaila (Street Boss) and the late finishing Accidental Tourist (NZ) (Telperion) to register his fifth career win for a large group of owners that includes the sponsor of the race, Jamieson Park.

Given a perfect trip in transit one-out behind pacemaker Pow Wow (NZ) (Power) by rider Michael McNab, Devastate launched his challenge early in the home straight as he raced to a clear lead.

He was immediately challenged by Chattahoochee (NZ) (Reliable Man) on his inner and Zaila on his outer at the 300m with Accidental Tourist looming into contention wider out.

The quartet set down to a tooth and nail struggle, with Devastate prevailing by a head from Zaila with Accidental just half a head away in third.

Forsman was pleased to see his charge get a deserved win on track conditions he thought would suit him perfectly.

"He went really well, and the race panned out how we had planned with Pow Wow leading and we could take a sit on him," Forsman said.

"It is hard to race on the speed like that when the track is so testing but he really toughed it out nicely and I think he deserved that one.

"It would be nice to think he might even get a little further in the future, although at the moment I'm happy to keep him to a mile as he still races a little fiercely and has a bit more to learn about the game."

Forsman was also playing a patient game around the immediate future of three-year-old filly Mary Shan (NZ) (Almanzor) and whether she heads to Australia or to the spelling paddock after her comfortable five-length victory in the second race on the card.

"We were going to put the blinkers on her today but with the ground the way it is we decided against it," he said.

"She has plenty of options for us to consider over the next few days, but it is great to get a confidence boosting win under her belt."

Bred by the late Sir Patrick Hogan and Lady Hogan, Devastate was a $160,000 purchase out of Carlaw Park's 2021 Karaka draft for Bloodstock Agent Bruce Perry and has now won over $192,000 in prizemoney for his large group of connections.

He is the fourth foal of unraced Pins mare Passion Cut and comes from Hogan's famous Diamond family line of mares including exceptional Gr.1 Railway Handicap (1200m) winner Diamond Lover, the dam of Group One winner and successful stallion Don Eduardo and multiple Group One winner Tristalove, the dam of Group One winners Viking Ruler and De Beers.

Forsman added a third victory to his tally later on the card when Russian Satire won over 1600m in the hands of Craig Grylls.

FIRST GEAR CAPS BIG WEEK FOR GRAYS

Days after Copper Belt Lodge went public with the news that Stephen Gray will return to New Zealand's training ranks alongside his distinguished father Kevin, the opening race at Trentham on Saturday unveiled an exciting young prospect for the soon-to-resume partnership.

The Kevin Gray-trained First Gear (NZ) (Derryn) was sent out as a $2.10 favourite for the TAB Odds Surge Every Race at Trentham 2YO (1200m), having finished second in both of his previous two starts behind the subsequent stakes winner Domain Ace (NZ) (Swiss Ace) and the Hong Kong-bound Endued (Deep Field).

Saturday was a breakthrough moment for the talented juvenile, who went straight to the lead under jockey Lisa Allpress and never gave his eight rivals a look in.

First Gear produced a potent kick at the top of the Trentham straight and dashed clear, going on to win by three and a half lengths from the late-finishing Lewin (Pierata) and Pinhook (Merchant Navy). He clocked 1:11.82 on a testing Heavy9 track that was subsequently downgraded to a Heavy10.

Raced by his breeders Bill and Murray Rose in partnership with Cole Rose and Maddi Daines, the Derryn gelding has now had four starts for a win, two seconds and $18,265 in stakes.

"He's a nice horse and has a good attitude," Kevin Gray said. "I trained the mother (A'Guin Ace), so it's good to get a win with another one from the family. He's a handy little horse and it was a good win today."

"Bill Rose is a very, very good owner. He's a farmer up in Waipukurau and a good friend of mine. I've got two or three nice horses for him at the moment and it's always good to get a win for him.

"I think this horse will go to the paddock now. He's done what I wanted him to do, and I think he could be at least as good as a three-year-old. I'm never in a hurry with horses – most of mine are out in paddocks now and will come back as better horses next season."

Allpress has been in the saddle for all of First Gear's starts so far and been impressed with his development.

"He started off quite quirky, but he's been getting a lot better each start," she said. "He's getting bigger and stronger as well and was quite dominant today, so that was nice."

"He'll make a lovely three-year-old. He's on the right track and did that so easily today."

Kevin and Stephen Gray trained over 400 winners together before

Stephen Gray relocated to Singapore in 2000, collecting another 825 wins at Kranji. Following the shock news that Singapore's once-thriving racing industry would come to an end in October with the closure of the Kranji course, Stephen Gray and his family elected to make New Zealand their home again.

"He was in Singapore for almost 25 years, so it's been a long time away from home," Kevin Gray said on Saturday. "It's great to have him back. He's got good knowledge and is a very good horse-rider himself. If he goes alright, he can push me out! I've been doing this for 60 years now."

"He's ready to go. He's going to have some really nice horses to train, he's bought some nice horses, and a lot of my owners are really keen to have him involved."
