CHECKMATE BOUND FOR ROSEHILL FEATURE

Checkmate will travel to Sydney to contest Saturday's A$600,000 Gr.1 Rosehill Guineas. (Kenton Wright (Race Images))

Wexford Stables took home the major spoils at Tauranga on Saturday, and this weekend, they will venture further afield with class three-year-old Checkmate (NZ) (Mongolian Khan) contesting the Gr.1 Rosehill Guineas (2000m) in Sydney.

Checkmate has impressed in his first racing campaign, winning three races including the Listed Armacup 3YO Stakes (1500m). The son of Mongolian Khan was selected by trainers Lance O'Sullivan and Andrew Scott to represent Wexford in the $3.5 million NZB Kiwi (1500m), and after settling beautifully in the running, he flashed home into third behind Damask Rose (NZ) (Savabeel) and Evaporate (NZ) (Proisir).

Delighted with the Kiwi performance, O'Sullivan and Scott turned their focus to Saturday's A$600,000 feature, with the gelding set to fly across the Tasman on Monday afternoon.

"He flies out this afternoon and he'll head to Randwick, where Ashley Handley will be looking after him for the week there," Scott said.

"We had hopes that he may head this way, and he just pulled up so well from the Kiwi and performed very well in that race.

"The team is really excited, we let him do a bit of work here this morning (Monday) and he worked particularly well. We're going over there with good levels of confidence that he will race well, but we're under no illusion that it is a high level of racing.

"It will be interesting to see how he runs out the 2000m, that is another factor for next season if he can run out the distance. That gives him some other options at four.

"We are so looking forward to it."

Godolphin colt Broadriding (Too Darn Hot) currently tops the TAB market for the Rosehill Guineas at $2.50, with Checkmate in the sixth line of betting at $15. Also featuring prominently are fellow Kiwi-bred three-year-olds Feroce (NZ) (Super Seth) ($11) and Aeliana (NZ) (Castelvecchio) ($13).

The stable will have a quieter week on home soil, with promising three-year-old Cheaha (Alabama Express) heading to Trentham for the Gr.2 Wellington Guineas (1400m), possibly to be joined multiple stakes-winning filly Sethito (NZ) (Super Seth).

"Cheaha flew home for third in the Almanzor (Gr.3, 1200m) on Karaka Millions Night, so he'll be going down for the Wellington Guineas," Scott said.

"Sethito, if she has a good week, she may also go. She won the Uncle Remus (Listed, 1400m) then possibly didn't have all favours in the Kiwi.

"They are probably the two-pronged attack heading there."

Back in Matamata, Wexford are celebrating a particularly satisfying victory in the Gr.2 Japan Trophy (1600m) by their beloved Waitak. The son of Proisir was stepping back from elite-level company at Tauranga and showed his class, dominating a quality field by three lengths under a top ride by Ryan Elliot.

"It was a well-deserved win for the horse, he's been so consistent and honest at the very highest level all season," Scott said. "It was great for the Devines who own him, they follow him with keen interest and it's fantastic for them.

"It was a really good result for the team who have put in a lot of work behind the scenes with him, we're tickled pink."

The versatile gelding will now step back out to a distance he hasn't raced at in nearly two years, taking on the Gr.2 Awapuni Gold Cup (2000m) next Saturday at Trentham.

"We will step back out to the 2000m again while his fitness levels are high and he's settling well in his races," Scott said.

"His run there will indicate what we do with him next season, but he's certainly strong at the mile and if he can run 2000m, that opens up a lot of options for him next summer."

A stakes assignment in the Central

Districts also looms for Grande Gallo, after she continued her affinity with Tauranga in the Triton Pacific Owens Plate (1200m).

"It was a terrific win by her, she loves Tauranga and it was a super ride from George (Rooke)," Scott said. "She's got a huge syndicate who get great delight from seeing her winning, which is what it's all about.

"She's a big, powerful mare that we've taken along pretty quietly, because she's a big girl that we didn't want to push on the hard ground. We dodged that real summer quick ground and the team's patience is being rewarded.

"She'll probably run next on the 12th of April down in the Hawke's Bay Sprint (Listed, 1200m), but she may go to Te Aroha a fortnight before for an Open 1100m as well.

"She's a lightly-trying mare that is only going to continue to get better with age."

PROGRESSIVE MARE DOING TOP HAUNUI FAMILY PROUD

Haunui Farm's strong run of form has continued with Grande Gallo (NZ) (Belardo) their latest graduate to stamp her credentials as a stakes winner in waiting.

High-class three-year-old Linebacker (NZ) has led the recent charge with the son of Super Seth claiming top honours in the Gr.1 Randwick Guineas (1600m).

Bred by GSA Bloodstock, he was purchased out of Haunui's draft at New Zealand Bloodstock's National Yearling Sale for $160,000 by co-trainer John O'Shea and Suman Hedge Bloodstock.

The Karaka nursery also co-bred and races the last-start Entain/NZB Insurance Pearl Series Final (1400m) winner Francee (NZ), a daughter of Ifraaj in Mark Walker and Sam Bergerson's stable.

And now, homebred Grande Gallo has continued the Haunui roll with a successful open class debut at Tauranga on Saturday.

The powerful four-year-old by Belardo owns the tidy record of five wins from 12 starts for the Wexford Stables training combination of Lance O'Sullivan and Andrew Scott.

"Medrano was a lovely, big mare and a good type and that's what Grande Gallo was, a very strong yearling," Haunui Managing Director Mark Chitty said.

"She made $85,000 during the second session at Karaka and for a filly to make that, she had to be a pretty good type."

The Listed Team Wealleans Tauranga Classic (1400m) on June 21 now looms as a potential target race for Grande Gallo.

"She's proving to be a more than handy mare who loves Tauranga (three wins) so it would be nice to see her get some black type," Chitty said.

"She's from our foundation family and Wexford have placed her really well.

"She goes back to Foxona, a Foxbridge mare my grandparents purchased back in the 1950s off Trelawney."

Grande Gallo is out of the General Nediym mare Medrano, whose half-sister Dopff won eight races including the Gr.2 Bluebird Foods Trophy (1600m).

They represent a celebrated family of Group winners including Valpolicella (NZ) (Red Ransom) and her offspring Vavasour (NZ) (Redoute's Choice), Catalonia-Vilanova (NZ) (Commands) and Celebrity Dream (NZ) (Thorn Park), Zourion (NZ) (Zoustar), Pearl Of Alsace (NZ) (Tavistock), Positivity (NZ) (Almanzor), Pussy Willow (NZ) (O'Reilly) and Saracino (NZ) (Per Incanto).

"We sold On The Rise (Medrano's dam) and then we bought Medrano back (for $25,000 at a Karaka May Sale)," Chitty said.

"We had partners in her and then we later bought them out."

She produced six winners and among them Grande Gallo's sister Fonsalette who was a multiple Group-placed two-year-old.

Medrano has since been sold but Haunui are continuing to breed from her winning Commands daughter St Gallen.

"The family continues to produce nice horses, which is all you can hope for, and St Gallen is in foal to Almanzor and we sold her Ribchester filly ($25,000) to Ian Middleton's Exempt Bloodstock this year," Chitty said.

Exempt are also part-owners of U S Navy Flag filly War Princess who maintained her unbeaten record with victory at Wanganui on Saturday to set the Peter Didham-trained youngster on a path to the Gr.1 Courtesy Ford Manawatu Sires' Produce Stakes (1400m).

BROWNES CONTINUE KIWI CONNECTION WITH SHOWDOWN VICTOR

A connection to their homeland attracted Emma-Lee and David Browne to McGaw (I Am Immortal) as a yearling, and twelve months later, the inexpensive gelding delivered the couple's biggest victory since moving to Australia in Saturday's $1 million Showdown (1200m).

At just his second appearance on race-day, McGaw was forced to travel wide from an outside draw early, eventually sitting outside the leader under Damian Lane. The son of I Am Immortal kicked strongly at the top of the Caulfield straight and kept finding, outmuscling Befuddle to score by a half-length.

"It was a massive effort from the horse, it was only his second start and he'd had a bit of a gap between races, he just had the one start back at the end of January," Emma-Lee Browne said.

"It was massive for the stable as well, we've been here for just over three years now and to get a result like that was a testament to our great team at home."

McGaw was bred by Havaparty Investments in Australia, as the fifth live foal out of Kiwi-bred mare Niki Piki Milo. A daughter of Librettist, Niki Piki Milo won three races from eight attempts, including the Listed Ryder Stakes (1200m) in the care of Peter and Dawn Williams.

Formerly based in the Waikato, the Brownes recalled watching Niki Piki Milo in New Zealand and after inspecting her son at the 2024 Inglis Premier Yearling Sale, they secured McGaw for just $14,000 out of the draft of Stonehouse Thoroughbreds.

Saturday's result catapulted his earnings above A$600,000.

"I just really liked his type, he's a very athletic, leggy type of horse," Browne said. "Also coming from New Zealand, we knew Niki Piki Milo and I remembered her being a nice horse, so that attracted us to him in the first place."

"I didn't expect him to be an early type at all, because he is quite leggy, but we wanted to get a fair bit of education into him as a two-year-old and he was doing it all quite easily. Every time we asked something more of him he put his hand up, he was quite natural."

"Even now, he still looks like he needs to grow into himself a bit, he's still quite lanky. We'll probably put him out now and hope to target the spring with him."

Now settled into life in Victoria, the Brownes have enjoyed success at the feature carnivals, highlighted by Scary's (NZ) (Shocking) runner-up finish in the A$2 million Gr.1 Victoria Derby (2500m) last November.

"It's been super, we love it here and it's been a great move for us with the horses and also for the family," Browne said.

"Pakenham is a fantastic place to train out of, we've got a great group of trainers here that all support each other. We've got a little farm here now and are happy to call this place home."

Continuing their association with Kiwi-bred and sourced gallopers, the Brownes travelled to the Karaka Yearling Sales in January and purchased two yearlings, including a Satono Aladdin colt from the draft of Jamieson Park.

"We came over to Karaka and actually bought a Hanseatic, which we didn't expect to do, but we also picked up a really nice Satono Aladdin and he's landed here in Melbourne," she said. "He's currently at the breakers."

GO RACING LAUNCH TRIO OF BRIGHT YOUNG STAYERS

Vistetto (NZ) (Tavistock) is the latest of a trio of young stayers to have kicked off their careers in exciting fashion in Australia for New Zealand-based syndicators Go Racing in recent weeks.

The Chris Waller-trained four-year-old was a dominant winner over 1950m at Yarra Valley on Sunday at just his second start, with Jordon Childs onboard.

"He was good today," Childs said. "He began nicely and ended up in a nice stalking position, upon straightening he just lost his way a little bit, he is still learning how to really put the races away, but he was good that last 100m."

Go Racing's General Manager Matt Allnutt said that the son of Tavistock had a delayed start to his career which may have been a blessing in disguise.

"He had an injury as a young horse which delayed his career but in hindsight that looks to have held him in good stead, and he looks like a really good stayer in the making," he said.

The son of Tavistock will step up to 2000m at his next start at Cranbourne on April 4.

His win followed the wins of fellow Go Racing charges Maison Louis (NZ) (Super Seth) and Cigar Man (Churchill) who also look to have bright staying futures.

The John O'Shea and Tom Charlton-trained three-year-old, Maison Louis kicked off his career with a fifth placing at Hawkesbury and followed that performance with an impressive three-length win at Goulburn over 1500m in late February.

"It was good to see him kick off early in his career and be so dominant," jockey Andrew Adkins said.

"He's still pretty casual about himself which is a really good attribute to have. I gave him a tap on his shoulder as he was coming up to the bend and he reacted very quickly. He had a big job ahead of him to chase down the leader and he did it with some style, he's pulled up excellent and returned to scale great. He's in for a really nice preparation."

Co-trainer John O'Shea was equally happy with the performance.

"He did a really good job," he said. "We hoped that was the sort of performance that we would see. He lived up to what he's been showing at home, he ran some lovely times, and he did it comfortably.

The son of Super Seth followed his win with a frustrating second placing over 1600m at Gosford on Saturday.

"There was plenty of merit in his run and I was pleased with his effort," said O'Shea. "He got held up behind a couple of slow ones and he was unable to build momentum into the race. He was very strong through the line, and it looks like he's going to run a little a trip which is extra encouraging."

Allnutt said that Maison Louis would step up to 2000m at his next appearance.

The Annabel Neasham and Rob Archibald-trained three-year-old Cigar Man followed his debut fourth with a win over 1625m at Wyong at the end of last month and he steps out over 2000m at Hawkesbury on Tuesday.

Jockey Adam Hyeronimus who was onboard for the win said that he expected the son of Churchill to be an even better horse over 2000m to 2400m.

"He was brilliant," he said. He jumped well from the gates and put himself into a nice position, when I asked him to click up, he did it in the really nice fashion of a horse that's going to appreciate getting over further ground."

"He was a Ready To Run purchase," Allnutt said. "Our data from the sale suggested that he was going to be a lovely stayer and that's what he's turning into and he's only going to get better with time."

"It's really exciting to have had three bright young stayers start off their careers so encouragingly in Australia."

JIMMY FRESH FOR WILLIAM REID

Jimmysstar will contest the Gr.1 William Reid Stakes on Saturday. (Bruno Cannatelli)

The fresh is best mantra will again be enacted for the Ciaran Maher-trained Jimmysstar (NZ) (Per Incanto) when he tackles Saturday's Gr.1 William Reid Stakes (1200m) at The Valley.

Maher's national assistant trainer Jack Turnbull said it worked to perfection when Jimmysstar stormed over the top of his rivals to win the Gr.1 Oakleigh Plate (1100m) at Caulfield on February 22.

He said a month between the Oakleigh Plate and the William Reid Stakes was an ideal time gap to freshen him up and then prepare him for his first run in a Group One weight-for-age event.

"If you keep him fresh in high-intensity sprint races, he can sit off them and make a long-sustained run which he did the other day," Turnbull said.

He said Jimmysstar had the stamina to run over longer trips, but they were prepared to back in his turn of foot in sprint races for the moment.

"He's got a bit of stamina, but he's quick. There's no doubt he will get back up to 1400m," Turnbull said.

He said Jimmysstar's last-start win was in a handicap, but his rating of 103 justified taking on Group One weight-for-age sprints.

"He's come back how he ran last spring and stayed to that rating. We've kept him fresh, and we'll keep him to shorter trips. If he was to win, we would consider the T.J Smith Stakes for his next start."

Maher is looking for his second win in the William Reid Stakes having won with Loving Gaby in 2020.

Jimmysstar hasn't started at The Valley and will acquaint himself with the track when he works there on Tuesday morning.

Sportsbet has Jimmysstar as a clear favourite at $3.50 to win the William Reid Stakes.

ARATAKI TO TARGET MILE

Now that Wrote To Arataki (NZ) (Wrote) has ticked off the 1600 metres box she will return to that trip in next Saturday's Gr.2 Sunline Stakes (1600m) at The Valley.

After Wrote To Arataki won the Gr.3 Frances Tressady Stakes (1400m) at Flemington on February 15, Trainer Matt Williams gave the six-year-old mare her first opportunity over 1600 metres when she finished third in the Gr.3 Matron Stakes at Flemington.

In that race, she took up the running and was still in front with 50 metres to go, before she was overhauled by Jennilala (Shalaa) and Charisse (Churchill).

Williams said that effort gave him confidence heading into the Sunline Stakes as it proved she could handle the trip.

"I thought she was really good at the mile for the first time. Dean (Yendall) felt that she was a little bit keen in the run for her first attempt at the mile," Williams said.

"Plus, she had gone three weeks between runs as ideally two weeks would have been perfect, but that's just the way the calendar unfolded. She now has two weeks between runs for the Sunline, which will also be her first run at The Valley."

Williams said Wrote To Arataki wasn't a great traveller and as a result she will miss the Sydney carnival.

"We will give her the run in the Sunline and then a couple of weeks in the paddock, then we will look to the spring with her."

Williams said 1600-metre races such as the Gr.1 Toorak Handicap at Caulfield and the Gr.1 Empire Rose Stakes would be target races.

"It would be great for her value if she could place in a Gr.1," Williams said.

The under-rated mare already has a Group Two win and two Group Three wins to her credit. - Racing.com

NEWS IN BRIEF

Cunning Fox back jumping

Syndicator Joe O'Neill has enjoyed the results over summer with his two-year-olds, but it's the prospect of having a champion hurdler with The Cunning Fox (NZ) (Reliable Man) which is whetting his appetite for the future.

O'Neill watched the undefeated jumper trial at Cranbourne on Thursday when he finished second in a 2400m hurdle trial to Dashing Willoughby (Nathaniel).

"He trialled brilliantly at Cranbourne on Thursday. We thought he was extraordinary," O'Neill said.

The Patrick and Michelle Payne-trained jumper won his three hurdle starts last season, with his final win coming in the J.J. Houlahan Hurdle at Ballarat.

O'Neill said The Cunning Fox will return to jumps racing in the M.J Bourke Hurdle at Pakenham on Sunday, April 13, which will be his lead-in to the Galleywood Hurdle at Warrnambool on April 30.

"He's a very good jumper. A lot of people think he's the best jumper around. He won his first two hurdle races easily and then at Ballarat he wasn't suited by the rock-hard track and he still won," he said.

The Cunning Fox resumed from a spell with an eighth placing at Sandown on February 26 and O'Neill said he will have another run on the flat before Pakenham.

GO LOTTE TOO TOUGH IN BEAUMONT CUP

The well-performed Go Lotte (NZ) (Telperion) appreciated the step-up over ground in Sunday's RMG Publicans Beaumont Cup (1500m), picking up the ninth win of her career in the Wingatui feature.

A mare by Telperion, Go Lotte had been restricted to six furlongs in her last three starts and was well-weighted in the race, carrying just 51kg in the hands of apprentice jockey Abdul Najib. Riviera Rebel started favourite at $3.40, and while he was expected to be a pace influence in the race, the gelding settled in midfield while Zadane (NZ) (Tavistock) powered to the front to set up a strong tempo.

Go Lotte and her stablemate King Of The Castle (NZ) (Castledale) travelled five lengths adrift of the leader, and passing the 600m, Najib pressed on to sit outside of the Zadane and hit the front early in the straight. The gusty mare pinned her ears back and kept finding, holding off a charging The Hangover (NZ) (Zacinto) and Adiktiv Passion to score by a long neck.

Tyler was rapt with the performance after identifying the race for his mare earlier in her campaign.

"I had this race targeted probably for the last six weeks, it's the only race that really suited her and the 1200m has just been far too short," he said. "Back up to her favourite distance around that 1500-1600m, with a bit of cut in the track, it was a great effort.

"At 1200, they are sharper horses and she's been struggling a bit early, but she's got up there easily today and the young fella rode her really well. With three kilos off her back, which she always loves, I thought she would be tough to beat really."

Following the effort, Tyler is not ruling out a trip to Riccarton Park for next Saturday's Gr.3 South Island Thoroughbred Breeders' Stakes (1600m).

"We may see how that fillies and mares race stacks up at Riccarton, with a bit of rain about the track may be bit off and she could be a chance," he said.

"I'll see how strong the noms are and take it from there."

Purchased by Tyler for just $1,500 at the 2020 National Yearling Sales, Go Lotte has made a healthy return on that investment, earning over $185,000 with nine wins and 15 minor placings from 53 starts.

"She's just a kids pet, everyone loves her," Tyler said. "If I had a stable full of her, it would be quite easy to train horses.

"She just tries hard and does everything you ask of her, she eats, sleeps and enjoys her work. She's a happy racehorse, it would be great to have a couple more of her and especially at that price."

CLASSY DISPLAY BY YOU SAY D'ORSAY

The fast-improving You Say D'Orsay (Under The Lourve) indicated he is a serious contender for the upcoming Gr.3 Manco Easter Handicap (1600m) with a gusty victory at Tauranga on Saturday.

An Australian-bred son of Under The Louvre, You Say D'Orsay has been lightly-raced by Cambridge trainer Chris Wood, with just four starts as a three-year-old resulting in two wins and two runner-up finishes. The gelding has continued his upward trajectory at four, placing fourth in the $1 million Aotearoa Classic (1600m) and was deservedly among the favourites in Saturday's St Cundy Bayleys Country and Lifestyle (1400m).

In the hands of apprentice jockey Ace Lawson-Carroll, You Say D'Orsay tracked up on-speed in his usual pattern, finding a good position outside Sako who maintained a solid tempo mid-race. The pair drew level at the top of the straight and neither horse would give an inch, with You Say D'Orsay finding the extra kick in the closing stages to score by a short neck.

"Everything panned out well, Ace rode him nicely," Wood said. "He jumped well and when Stephen Marsh's horse (Sako) wasn't going to hand up (the lead), we just sat on the outside of him.

"In the first two races, it looked like it was going to be a bit of an on-pace day so I thought if I had one that was going to handle it for the day, it was him. He kicked well when he came up to the other horse and pulled away in the last little bit.

"It was a game effort with plenty of weight on board, I thought it was a good, strong win."

All roads now lead to the Easter for the gelding, who will have another run before the mile feature at Ellerslie on April 19.

"I'll have to have a good look at the book in the next 24 hours, we probably do need a stepping stone to get to the Easter, it just depends which race that is," Wood said.

An earner of over $185,000, You Say D'Orsay was identified and purchased for $50,000 by Wood, Paul Moroney and Catheryne Bruggeman at the 2022 Magic Millions Gold Coast Yearling Sale. In 12 starts, the gelding has never finished out of the first six, with four wins and four minor placings to his credit.

"He was a nice horse, Paul Moroney bought him for me and he came with nice credentials and a good walk on him," Wood said. "Paul did a good job to find him for not a lot of money and since he's arrived here, he's just taken every step and not put a foot wrong really.

"He can get a little bit tender in his feet, but that's the only problem we've had with him.

"Apart from that, he's just a dream to have around the stables. He's the loveliest, kindest horse you could ever deal with."

HADID A FITTING FIRST WINNER FOR BROWN

Northern apprentice jockey Sienna Brown earned a fitting first victory in the saddle aboard Hadid (NZ) (Charm Spirit) at Tauranga on Saturday.

The 19-year-old had ridden the daughter of Charm Spirit on four previous occasions, including at the trials in the early stages of becoming an apprentice. Prepared by Hanna Orting, Hadid is owned by Brown's parents Tony and Nikki, who were on course to witness a very special moment in the Larissa Reid Bayleys Whakatane Commercial (1600m).

Having observed the pattern of the day, Brown took initiative from the jump, utilising her lightweight to press forward and put the pressure on her rivals. At the 800m, she extended the margin and had an eight-length buffer on Monday Melody (Snitzel), and turning for home, she had the winning break, holding off the late closing favourite to score by 2 – ¼ lengths.

Brown was delighted with the result, particularly on a horse that means so much to her family.

"They had all been coming off the front and on the rail, so from that gate on this track, everything was really set out for her," she said.

"It is really special, especially because this horse has been with me since the start. She was my first trial winner and I helped name her as well."

Coming from an equestrian background, making a career out of the horse industry appealed to Brown and racing was the obvious choice, with her parents also breeding a number of quality horses, including recent $3.5 million NZB Kiwi (1500m) contender Hankee Alpha (NZ) (Proisir).

"I did a bit of show jumping and dressage, and I thought it would be cool to be able to make money out of riding," Brown said. "Racing came naturally with Mum and Dad and I'm really enjoying it."

"I'm apprenticed to Shaun and Emma Clotworthy, Maryanne and George Simon recommended them to us and I went and gave it a go, and they've been very good to me. My riding has really improved since I've been with them."

"I've had so many opinions from other jockeys and they've been really helpful in helping me improve, giving me tips and things like that.

RESPECTED EQUINE VETERINARIAN DR BILL EWEN REMEMBERED FONDLY

A brilliant mind, a love of animals and a massive contribution to many facets of the racing and breeding industry are being recalled following the death of Matamata equine veterinarian Dr Bill Ewen.

His sudden death at his home last Tuesday aged 68 followed a period of poor health.

After growing up in Auckland and studying at Massey University's School of Veterinary Science, Ewen was an honours with distinction graduate in 1979 and put his degree to good use with one of the country's eminent equine veterinary practices, Thompson and Marks.

In due course he became a partner and was to forge his career in both the breeding and performance sides of the industry.

"After completing his secondary education at King's College, Bill was accepted for both the Auckland and Otago University medical schools as well as Massey University," his wife Jane recalled.

"I suspect his parents would have preferred him to become a doctor, but his love of animals won over and while he did qualify as a doctor, it was as a veterinarian."

Another aspect of Ewen's formative years included attending race meetings at nearby Ellerslie racecourse, which was another seed that led to specialising in equine medicine.

Colin Thompson's son John, best known now as the principal of Rich Hill Stud, remembers Ewen's arrival in Matamata off the back of a phone call to the Thompson residence seeking employment.

"Two things from the call that my mother took stood out – Bill's polite request for my father to call him back at his convenience, and to make it a collect call.

"Then when Colin did call him back, he was further impressed by Bill's qualifications, which led to him getting a job at Thompson and Marks and eventually becoming a partner in the practice."

The younger Thompson was to form a lasting relationship with Ewen, initially in his role as broodmare manager at Blandford Lodge and then when he established Rich Hill Stud.

"While Colin and Jim were his seniors, in breeding matters as new technologies developed, Bill became something of the breeding guru of the practice.

"The biggest change was the ultrasound scan in the late 1980s, which revolutionised the assessment of mares in their breeding cycles.

"One of his skills at the vet bail was his ability to remember a mare's follicle from one day to the next and using that knowledge to determine optimum covering times.

"Bill had that unique ability to explain things in layman's terms and he was always the same mellow guy, no matter how hectic his schedule might be during the peak of the breeding season."

Cambridge veterinarian Dr Paul Fraser, one of Ewen's contemporaries over many years, remembers him for not only his professional skills but also the other facets of his persona.

"Bill was one of those guys who was always seeking knowledge and involvement, not just as a vet but also fully immersing himself in so many aspects of racing as an owner and breeder and as an administrator.

"He had this passion for sport, just about every sport. With all respect I have to say that with Bill's passing, the world has lost one of its greatest sports observers.

"Amongst his veterinary colleagues he was so popular, a really good guy who will be missed."

On both a professional and personal level, few were closer to Ewen than former Matamata, now Karaka, trainer Lance Noble.

"From the time I arrived in Matamata as a 17-year-old to work for Jim Gibbs, Bill became one of my mentors," Noble said. "I was keen to learn as much as I could and he was the perfect guy to explain things.

"He became my stable vet when I went training on my own, which included helping with my yearling selections. He worked alongside two of the best equine vets of that era and like Colin and Jim, Bill bred, sold and raced his own horses, which made him very well-rounded as far as practical knowledge and understanding went.

"He became a very loyal friend, which included our mutual love of sport. Rugby union and cricket were his favourites, and in his mind there were only two rugby teams – the All Blacks and the Blues.

"He would have been pretty niggly after the Chiefs beat the Blues so narrowly in Hamilton on Saturday night, but no matter what, he never lost that great sense of humour.

"Our many trips to his favourite sports ground, Eden Park, were just the best fun as the carload debated team selections on the way north and even when the All Blacks invariably won, the drive home was all about what they could have done better."

In racing administration, Ewen gave more than 25 years' service to the Matamata Racing Club, beginning as a steward, then as a committee member and in the final nine years as a director, after which he was accorded life membership in 2023.

Bill Ewen's funeral service is scheduled for 11am this Thursday at the All Saints Anglican Church in Matamata, followed by a gathering at the Matamata racecourse.
